

CENTER OF ATTENTION

Coventry's Regional Career and Technical Center held its annual open house last night, where current students explained their programs of study and fielded questions for interested future classmates and their parents.

Kendra Leigh Miller • Daily Times

TOP: Director Lori Ferguson explains to prospective students and their parents some of the benefits of attending the Coventry Regional Career and Technical Center at last night's open house.

ABOVE: Sophomores Kaitlyn Oliver and Destiny Arnold are enrolled in the career center's graphic communications program, where they learn graphic arts.

ABOVE: Sophomore Matt Mayers, enrolled in the technology program, creates computer programs and applications as part of the curriculum.

LEFT: Senior cosmetology students Miriah Spalding and Holly Shaw prepare their presentation.