

Coventry schools will hold appreciation week

KENDRA LEIGH MILLER
kmiller@ricentral.com

COVENTRY – School Committee members and school officials discussed plans at their September 25th meeting for their upcoming professional day being held October 18.

The professional day will be held at Coventry High School where teachers will focus on the new teacher evaluation system and school-based professional development. School Related Personnel (SRP) will be at the Alan Shawn Feinstein Middle School where they will focus on customer service, CPI non-violence crisis intervention, de-escalation training, special education training and confidentiality.

Support staff and SRP will also be recognized as part of Coventry Public Schools Support Staff Appreciation Week, during the week of October 15. SRP employees include custodians, clerks, maintenance workers, custodians, grounds keepers and teaching assistants.

“As I walk through our buildings I see they look great,” said Coventry Superintendent Michael Almeida. “We definitely value our employees. We couldn’t do what we do on a daily basis without them. The SRP staff is becoming more and more important.”

DAILY TIMES

A publication of Hometown Newspapers

Online at www.RICentral.com