CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: Hopkins Hill Elementary Student Grady Kaminsky schools Coventry Superintendent Mike Convery on how a recent project was completed; Eman Simon explains how the husky built by students was constructed to Coventry School Committee member Donna Kalunian; Assistant Superintendent Craig Levis is shown the ins and outs of the portfolio system by a student.

Some of the students from the third, fourth and fifth grades at Coventry's Hopkins Hill Elementary School presented some of their class work including reading, algebra, one art project featuring recycled milk cartons and another art project using digital photography to create digital portfolios at last night's school committee meeting. Students demonstrated to those in attendance the work they've done.
